

Institutional Data for 2007 Critical Success Factors

The State Board of Community Colleges announced in June 2007 that Blue Ridge Community College achieved Superior status for meeting six performance funding measures. To achieve Superior status, a college must meet a minimum of five of the six performance funding measures; showing significant improvement on a measure does not count toward Superior performance. Under the Performance Funding plan, schools achieving Superior status would be eligible for sharing funds reverted at the end of the year. Blue Ridge Community College is the only community college in the North Carolina Community College System to obtain this ranking for seven years straight.
